The power of environmental law

Experiences from the past and perspectives for the future

elni 30th birthday conference

Brussels, Friday 15 October 2021

The Environmental Law Network International (elni) was founded in 1990. This network of environmental lawyers in Europe and beyond started with discussions and publications on topics like participation and litigation rights of environmental associations in Europe, licensing procedures for industrial plants, environmentally sound waste management or international Environmental Governance. Since then, the environmental crisis – with climate change, loss of biodiversity and worldwide pollution of air, land and water – has become much more serious. Environmental law has also grown in quantity and quality during these 30 years. So elni's (belated) birthday event might be the right moment to look back and to look ahead with a focus on what environmental law can and should achieve.

The Conference will have a closer look at four major topics: 1) Involvement of the public, 2) Litigation, 3) Climate laws and 4) 'Zero pollution'. Leading European experts on environmental law from academia and legal practice will analyse and discuss past developments, the present situation and future challenges. They will pay particular attention to current plans and legislative proposals at the EU level regarding access to justice, a European Climate Law and the 'Zero pollution' action plan for air, water and soil.

The event is co-organised by elni and the Flemish Environmental Law Association (VVOR).
